In 2018, the Denver Area Council began welcoming girls into its Cub Scouts program (ages 5 – 10). Of the 12,346 Cub Scouts in the DAC in 2018, 756 were girls. Girls are still welcome to join, and to attend Family Adventure Day, where they can learn more about Cub Scouts before they join! Cub Scout dens will continue to be all-boy or all-girl environments. You may search for current packs to join at JoinScouting.org.

The decision to open additional Boy Scouts of America programs to girls resulted from the input of Scouting families, as well as prospective Scouting families. At a time when families are busier than ever, giving them the option to get involved as a family is a great opportunity to bring families and communities together.

Scouts BSA, the older youth program for youth ages 11 – 17, began welcoming girls on February 1, 2019. Nearly 250 girls have joined Scouts BSA this year. The DAC has now welcomed nearly 1,100 girls into its Cub Scouts and Scouts BSA programs. All DAC programs offer fun and challenging activities that promote character development and physical fitness, while encouraging youth to be leaders in their homes, schools, and communities.
