History of Sporting Clays

Sporting Clays has been around since the 1920’s, when it was invented in England. Designed to simulate the shooting of game in actual field conditions, Sporting Clays is widely considered the most realistic and varied of shotgun games.

The Denver Area Council Sporting Clays Invitational is very similar to a “foursome” golf tournament. Squads of four individual shooters compete to post the highest average team score. Targets are thrown at various angles and speeds to simulate the flight patterns of various fowl or wildlife.

About the Tournament

The Spring Sporting Clays Invitational offers a fun day of shooting for both experienced and novice shooters. This corporate event is a great opportunity to network with other business leaders, and socialize with clients, vendors, and peers.

Your participation raises funds that support 50 percent of the Denver Area Council’s annual operating budget for camp. These funds are essential in ensuring all youth have a safe and quality camp experience in which to grow, learn, and have fun.

We invite you to join us for an exciting and memorable day of shooting at our exclusive Sporting Clays course. Located on 3,500 acres, our Charles S. McNeil Peaceful Valley Scout Ranch offers a unique topography for shooters. This is one of the few times of the year that the course is available to the public.
